Office 286-1760 Secretary-Manager Res. 457-1110

The Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce

IT'S BEEN THREE YEARS

Three years ago I walked into the Chamber of Commerce office, which was then located in the basement of the County Registry Building, for the first time. I had been hired to do what I am doing now, but I had absolutely no experience nor training in this type of work. Marion Arntfield, who had spent many years working with the Chamber greeted me and began careful training her new boss. With considerable help from Marion and some very understanding Directors, we began to get out act together.

A number of friends said they didn't know whether to congratulate me or offer condolences when I told them of the new job I had undertaken. Not only was there difficulty convincing sufficient individuals to serve as Directors, but an additional problem of getting a quorum to attend an annual meeting to elect them.

This year we anticipate that the annual meeting will be a sell out, as it was last year. Indications are that for the first time in recent memory we may even have an election, with more directors offering to serve than there are positions for. This would be a very healthy sign indeed.

I am pleased of course with the accomplishments that we have made over the last three years, but I am also aware that there is still much to be done. An anniversary is an occasion I think, to pause for a moment and reflect, and then look ahead to the future. I am happy to say I am much better equipped for that future, having not only three years experience, but the benefits of a number of informative seminars and training programs that the directors have been kind enough to allow me to participate in. I feel these are particularly valuable, when you consider after all, that a Chamber manager is the only person in any community doing what he is doing. When we get together with others in the same profession we are able to benefit a great deal from the exchange of ideas.

Elaine Blakey, the Chamber's dedicated secretary, is also celebrating an anniversary, having been with us for the past two years. Chamber offices by their very nature, and particularly this one, are usually in a state of organized confusion and Elaine deserves a great deal of thanks and appreciation for coping with me and all the other problems she contends with.

MY APOLOGIES

The purpose of the merchant-consumer surveys taken by the Experience 78 students this summer was to provide meaningful background material for the business people in both Minden and Haliburton from which they can build a positive plan of action. The ultimate aim would be to see each town create a Business Improvement Area plan and put it into effect as a result. The surveys have been completed but are not yet in a form that the directors feel is suitable for general release. As a result of interviewing both the students and myself the newspapers have published articles about the survey which are very negative in nature. The surveys asked for criticism so it is not surprising that the results are negative. Releasing this much information was a mistake in judgement on my part and I apologize for it. Any adverse publicity it is hoped can be replaced by announcements of positive action to be undertaken by the merchants' associations.

THE CORDUROY ENDURO

Over 300 Trail Bikes will be invading the Highlands again this weekend. Not only do these participants add a considerable amount of dollars to our local economy each year, but their advance crews contribute a considerable amount of work to improving the snowmobile trails over which much of their course is laid out. I know they are noisy, but it only lasts for a short while. Please welcome them, as we do, and encourage them to return.

Lake contamination suspected cause of ear infections...new committee

Contamination of Haliburton County lakes is suspected as the possible cause of an apparent high incidence of ear infections in the county, according to a newly-formed four-woman committee to investigate pollution in Haliburton County.

The committee, spear-headed by Sonya Holliday-Rhodes will also be looking into the use of P.C.B. contaminated oil on county roads, the alleged spraying of dangerous chemicals by Ontario Hydro, the spraying of dangerous chemicals along roadsides and all forms of lake pollution including the effect of acid rain.

Other members of the committee's executive are Belinda Brown, Eleanor Gilligan and Judy Phillips. Mrs. Holliday-Rhodes was formerly the president of the Park Royal Anti-Pollution Committee which was instrumental in fighting industrial pollution in Mississauga.

The group said it has become aware of an apparent high incidence of ear infection in the area and suspects that lake contamination is possibly a contributing factor. The Ministry of the Environment has been testing area lakes recently in hopes of finding the cause of these infections and the committee says it expects to receive the Ministry's latest report in a few days.

Local women injured in head-on crash

Three people were injured, two seriously, in a head-on collision last Sunday evening. Nellie Miscio, 51, of Minden, and her 79-year-old mother, Annie Miscio were taken to hospital with major injuries. The pair were travelling east on Minden Concession Road 11 when their car collided with a westbound car on the crest of a hill.

Linell Elstone, 30, of Guilford Township, received only minor injuries while her 1971 car was damaged to the tune of $2,000.

Damage to the Miscio car was estimated at $2,000. Investigation by Provincial Constable Brian Dunham. A week ago Sunday a Toronto man received minor injuries when his truck went out of control, then into the ditch where it hit a rock alongside Kennaway Lake Road.

Thomas O'Sullivan, 22, was charged with careless driving. His 1977 pick-up truck received $1,500 damage. Investigation by Provincial Constable Dennis Potter.

A Mississauga man was charged with careless driving after his car went into a ditch along Highway 648 and rolled over a week ago Monday.

Constable Weldon Popp. The same day two vehicles collided on the crest of a West Straggle Lake Road hill.

A 1972 car driven by Gordon Hunter, 30, of Rexdale, received damage amounting to $1,000 while a 1964 pick-up driven by David Teelock, 16, of Toronto, received $1,000 damage.

Investigation by Provincial Constable Weldon Popp. A week ago Tuesday a Haliburton man was charged with failing to yield when two vehicles collided at the intersection of Park and Pine Streets in Haliburton.

Charged is Russel Woodcock, 57, driver of a 1976 Bell Canada van which received $800 damage.

John Packard, 29, of Haliburton was driving a 1973 car which was estimated to have $500 damage.

Investigation by Provincial Constable Weldon Popp. Last Thursday a Haliburton man was charged with an improper right hand turn when he drove into the left lane in front of an on-coming pick-up truck, hitting it, then striking a tree. Charged is Frank Howe, 70, of RR 1, Haliburton. Mr. Howe was driving a 1978 pick-up that received $2,500 damage.

A 1964 truck driven by Norman McKnight, 23, of Minden, received damage estimated at $1,000. Investigation by Provincial Constable Brian Dunham.

Boat hits stump, rider flung across Gull River

A midnight boat passenger was tossed right out of his seat and flung across the Gull River at Moore's Lake a week ago Friday after the high-speed outboard struck a submerged stump. While no one was hurt, the bottom was torn out of the boat. The boat, travelling at an estimated 60 m.p.h., was doing 'wheelies' at the time, in company with several other boats. The incident occurred about midnight Friday and was witnessed by cottagers attracted and angered by the late-night roaring of the powerful outboard motorboats. Afterwards the President of the Moore's Lake Cott-agers Association, Chris Wahlroth, said he had first noticed the boats when one of them zoomed in dangerously close to shore in order to splash some of the driver's watching companions.

Mr. Wahlroth said that one boat then headed up the lake at high speed, made a fast turn and 'roared down' the Gull River. Wheeling in to shore to again splash those on shore, the boat came in too close and struck the stump, catapulting one of the boat's four passengers right across the river, Mr. Wahlroth said. No one was injured, so far as is known.

Early that same morning the shattered boat was hauled out at Forest Echo Lodge and 'quickly' hauled away by trailer.

The incident was not reported to police, say O.P.P. at Minden.

RT. REV. LEWIS S. GARNSWORTHY
BISHOP OF TORONTO

Anglican Bishop to visit local area

The Bishop of Toronto, the Right Reverend Lewis S. Garnsworthy, beginning a series of extended visits to the various areas of his diocese, will be spending the first three days of October in the counties of Victoria and Haliburton. Included in this tour will be a variety of educational and liturgical events as well as many opportunities for personal contact and dialogue with local residents. Clergy and laity from the areas have arranged an itinerary for the Bishop which includes visits to: Fenelon Falls, Bobcaygeon, Lindsay, Haliburton, Kinmount, Burnt River and Cannington. The Reverend E.W. Lowin, Rector of St. Paul's Anglican Church in Lindsay and Regional Dean of Victoria and Haliburton will be in charge of arrangements for Bishop Garnsworthy's tour. The Bishop has indicated that he 'looks forward to a creative, purposeful visit with the clergy and laity of the area and to spending extra time in the beautiful fall setting of Victoria and Haliburton'.

Too tanked up to tank up!

Motorist William MacKenzie wanted to tank up his car last Saturday evening. But when he drove across the lawn of the O.P.P.'s Minden Detachment office in search of gasoline pumps police found him to be tanked up instead. Police say the 39-year-old Toronto man drove into the Detachment's parking lot and kept right on going...over the curb stone, over the holding tank and over about 100 feet of the Detachment office lawn stopping at the embankment in front of the O.P.P. front door. Mr. MacKenzie told surprised but inquisitive police he was looking for gasoline and complained that their parking lot was poorly lighted.

Mr. MacKenzie was charged with impaired driving. Investigation by Provincial Constable Boyd Jarvis.

Plague Of Strikes

The past few years have seen this country plagued increasingly with crippling strikes.

Anytime, whether wildcat post office walkouts or airline strikes, it seems as though we just get over the crisis of one strike when we're faced with still another...and another, and...

Now Toronto's TTC is striking and while it doesn't really affect us here in Haliburton County it is, after all, still another crippling strike affecting a million or two Canadians.

Meanwhile we are told we can expect still another Post Office strike just about anytime.

Unemployment and inflation are Canada's current top-ranking problems.

The third has to be strikes and their destructive effect on the country and its economy.

Yes, we've garnered a plague of strikes these past few years, and like any epidemic it will do us in if we don't do it in first.

There just has to be a better way.

Report from Queen's Park

by

John Eakins M.P.P.

My colleagues and I, in the Liberal Party are committed to free enterprise and to ensuring a strong corporate sector in the years ahead, at the same time protecting the futures of the people who work within our free enterprise economy. In this connection, we are very concerned about the situation with respect to pension plans in Canada. Stuart Smith has compared the financial status of these plans to a ticking timebomb, the eventual explosion of which would have devastating effects for corporations, governments and hundreds of thousands of pensioners. Indications are that the Canada Pension Plan and many private plans are in danger of going broke, because the level of benefits paid out has been allowed to rise much faster than the level of contributions. Even two years ago, a survey of some 100 Canadian corporations revealed unfunded pension liabilities of $930 million.

Rapidly escalating salaries in the last decade have sharply increased the debts of most pension plans, which calculate benefits on a percentage of an employee's top earning years or career average earnings. Claims on pension plans are now far greater than most actuaries predicted when contribution schedules were established. Unless pension plan financial imbalances are resolved quickly, hundreds of thousands of working Canadians will not be able to collect a cent from pension plans to which they have contributed.

For the Canada Pension Plan, the break-even point will be reached in 5 years - 1983. At that point, the plan will be paying out more in current benefits than is received in premiums. The surpluses of past years will be exhausted by the end of the century, approximately, and unless contributions are greatly increased before that time, the Canada Pension Plan will go broke. To quote CANADIAN BUSINESS magazine, 'The mounting deficits are staggering. Canada's provinces at present owe their civil service pension plans a total of $10 billion, and, in addition, they are in debt to the Canada Pension Plan by more than $12 billion...As for the private plans, whose combined assets total about $24 billion, incredibly, no one has yet done a comprehensive check on how far short they are of being able to pay the benefits they're committed to pay.'

Problems are compounded by the fact that the number of elderly people in Canada will double in the next thirteen years. That same post-war 'baby boom', which has moved like a tidal wave through our school system is now entering the workforce; inevitably, it will have an impact on the pension plans, as the post-war 'babies' become senior citizens, and fewer and fewer workers support more and more pensioners. Lowering the mandatory age of retirement from the present 65 would create further difficulties.

The impending pension crisis will also have an effect upon business and government. Companies are obliged to make up any shortfall in their private pension plans, and the liability can be enormous. Of Canadian companies surveyed by the Financial Executives Institute, nearly 20 percent of those with pension plan shortfalls face liabilities amounting to more than one year's after-tax earnings.

Dwindling pension funds will have considerable impact on the Government of Ontario, whose recent enormous spending deficits have been financed almost entirely by borrowing from pension fund surpluses - which end in 1982. Not only must we readjust expenditure patterns to avoid raiding the capital markets, but beginning in 1987 we must, in addition, find hundreds of millions of dollars every year till the end of the century in order to repay our borrowings from public pension plans. Even this year, we must repay $175 million; our annual repayment will rise to $701 million in 1987, and to more than $1 billion in 1997.

We can no longer ignore the pension 'time bomb'. Moreover, workers who are contributing benefits in the belief that they are ensuring adequate retirement incomes must be told the truth about the impending crisis. The imbalance between benefits and contributions in public pension plans must be rectified. Every company with unfunded pension liabilities should reveal the full extent of those liabilities in their financial statements, and every company with unfunded pension liabilities should be required to declare the means by which those liabilities will be met. Investors have a right to know of these claims on the company's future profits and working people have a right to know the status of their promised retirement incomes.

There should be immediate vesting of pension rights for all workers who contribute to private plans. All pension rights should become fully portable. At present, in many cases, people who leave their employment before age 45, or with less than ten years service, lose their pension rights and are refunded only their contributions, plus interest. In addition, protection should be provided for the senior worker who has contributed to a private pension plan throughout his career, but is now often left with no pension benefits when his employer shuts down. If the impending pension crisis is to be averted, we must plan and act now, without delay. Otherwise, several million Canadians will find that after a lifetime of contributions they are unable to collect their pension benefits.

Think small

by Jim Smith

1945. It hadn't been a particularly good year for Japan. The proud nation which had once commanded the Pacific rim now huddled miserably, reduced to a shattered pile of smoking rubble by the adverse fortunes of war.

1960. The same decimated island - a land virtually bare of resources - had become the world's leading industrial power. Traditional American firms were transferring their production to Japan, leaving nothing more than distribution shells at home. The Japanese had latched on to a strange new electronic device known as a transistor and used it in magnificently imaginative ways.

1978. Only 33 years after the end of the war and no one laughs at the slogan "Made in Japan" anymore. A country with every reason except pride to fail still sits at the top of the economic ladder, still defending its economy with imagination and courage. The transistor has long since been replaced by integrated circuits, a technology which promises to make Japan - which no longer enjoys a low-priced labour force - even stronger tomorrow than it has been in recent years.

1945. Canada, a nation blessed with spectacular resource wealth, her factories untouched by war, her work force one of the world's most highly educated, stands on the brink of greatness.

1960. Canada has failed to realize her apparent industrialized destiny. Indeed, she has fallen farther behind the rest of the industrialized world.

1978. Canada is now laughingly considered an underdeveloped country masquerading as a nation of substance. We've become the Sonny Liston of economics - a so-called champion felled by a single punch early in the first round.

What did we do wrong? Mostly, it's a case of what Japan did right. Economic development is at the base of every Japanese governmental decision. The Japanese are past masters at negotiating the most favourable conditions for their economic development; if a major purchase must be made abroad, the Japanese will ensure that some new technology is imported into the bargain.

In Canada, if it is necessary to contract with a foreign manufacturer of, for example, fighter planes, little thought is given to forcing partial production in Canada or sub-licensing of some important technical knowledge to Canadian firms, educating our engineers. It isn't the fault of the Ministry of Defence; Canada should have an active industrial planning department within government.

England recently entered into a sub-licensing agreement with a major American producer of microprocessors

(the tiny silicon chips that have replaced transistors and revolutionized the data processing industry). England won't turn a profit on that deal directly - but her engineers will learn about this vital new technology first hand. In the years to come, England and her trading partners in Europe won't be excluded from the social and economic revolution created by microcircuits - a field which remains relatively foreign to Canadians.

The most common question around Ottawa is "Who's in charge here?" It's time we had an answer.

"Think small" is an editorial message from the Canadian Federation of Independent Business.

Registry Office closing again denied by Queen's Park

Registry offices at Minden and Lindsay are not earmarked for closure at the present time. At least that's the latest assurance of Consumer and Commercial Relations Minister Larry Grossman in a recent letter to Victoria-Haliburton M.P.P. John Eakins. Originally revealed in a Progress story last June 21, the proposed registry offices closing came from a special list of such proposed closings acquired by a committee of lawyers in Grey South. The list mentioned Minden and Lindsay amongst others. Since then and despite repeated Queen's Park denials, reaffirmation of the proposed closings have surfaced from time to time, most recently from the Lindsay Real Estate Board.

The text of Mr. Eakins' statement on his further inquiries into this matter and Mr. Grossman's reply follow:

Mr. Eakins' statement: 'When it was first rumored that the Counties of Victoria and Haliburton might be on a preferred list for the closing of their Registry Offices at Lindsay and Minden, I wrote to the Honorable Larry Grossman, Minister of Consumer and Commercial Relations. Mr. Grossman assured me at that time that no such action was being planned with either office. Since that time an article appeared in the Lindsay Post from the Lindsay Real Estate Board suggesting that such a closure was indeed being considered, I again wrote to the Minister asking for a further clarification, I enclose a copy of his reply to me as of August 21, 1978. I am asking that if the municipal people, real estate associations or others have further questions, they do not hesitate to contact me. I can assure the citizens of Victoria and Haliburton Counties that if there is any move in the future to remove the functions of these offices within the two counties, then that move will be met with very strong opposition indeed. The Minister is well aware of my feelings in this regard'.

And, Mr. Grossman's reply: Dear John: What else can I say? At the present time we are not considering either Minden or Lindsay Registry offices. If at any time we should decide to consider closing either the Minden or Lindsay Registry offices, I can assure you that full prior public disclosure will be made, and extensive public consultation will take place. There will be no sudden surprise moves. In any event, we are not at the present time considering closing either office. Yours very truly, Larry Grossman Minister.

Low-Cost Loans Available for Small Businesses

Acting on demands from the Canadian Federation of Independent Business, the federal government has improved its program of special low-interest loans for small businesses. Known as the Small Businesses Loans Act, the program provides government-guaranteed loans at prime plus one per cent (currently 10.25%), the same rate paid by the most credit worthy larger corporations. The loans are available only for capital expenses; current expenses are not included.

"The shortage of adequate term financing for small business is a serious national problem," CFIB President John Bulloch explained. "Canada's small business community is under-capitalized and this makes bank borrowing difficult. Guaranteed term loans are the answer."

Small Business Loans are available from most chartered banks, credit unions, caisses populaires, trust companies, Alberta Treasury Branches, loan companies and insurance companies. However, many managers of lending institutions have been reluctant to volunteer information about the program to small business customers. The Federation urges all small business operators to ask for information where they conduct their financial affairs.

Lenders are expected to assess loan applications on the same merits as they would assess standard loan applications. "Any eligible small businessman who experiences difficulty obtaining these guaranteed loans should contact the president of that institution," Bulloch stated. "The Federation regards this program as a great CFIB victory. However, it will not prove successful if small businesses are not aware of their rights."

Canada's Gross National Product (GNP)

Quarter to Quarter Change

All data Seasonally Adjusted

Source: National Income and Expenditure Accounts (13-001)

GNP

Gross National Product, seasonally adjusted, increased 3.3% in the second quarter to a level of $230.1 billion, measured in real terms. GNP rose 1.1%. The implicit price index for Gross National Expenditure rose 2.2%. The advance in real GNP was the result of a strong resurgence in gross fixed capital formation, a continuation of moderate growth in personal expenditure and government current expenditure on goods and services and a resumption of inventory accumulation; the major source of weakness in the second quarter was a substantial decline in the merchandise trade surplus.

A notable feature of the second quarter was the 1.8% rise in real final domestic demand which has been generally sluggish since early 1977. The strength of final domestic demand, in particular the increase in gross fixed capital formation and a return to a more normal pattern of export demand by the United States in the second quarter, explains in large part the decline in the trade surplus. The increase in investment demand was particularly marked for business machinery and equipment, a component with a high import content. Gross fixed capital formation, after recording considerable weakness over the last four quarters, grew 5.1% in the second quarter; however, the level of fixed investment remained only 1.8% above the level of a year ago. Most of the second quarter increase originated in the business sector, which was up 5.3% government gross fixed capital formation provided some additional stimulus.

IT'S AMAZING!

Craft talk

By Louisa Rush

So many readers have written to say how much they enjoy my column, and it is impossible to reply to you all personally. I appreciate the time and trouble you have gone to in writing, and I will do my best to answer your questions through my column.

Buttonholes seem to be an area where a number of knitters would like to improve, and I must say that neat buttonholes do much for the overall appearance of your finished garment.

The directions will call for a certain number of stitches to be cast-off for the buttonhole, for the sake of this exercise let us say four, so cast-off the first three in the normal way; then slip the stitch that is on the right-hand needle back onto the left-hand needle, then knit this stitch and the following one together. In all four stitches will be used. By knitting the last two stitches together, it avoids a loose or sloppy end to the buttonhole.

Another way of working a buttonhole, is to use colored thread for the buttonhole stitches, instead of casting them off, knit them with an odd strand of colored wool both on the knit and the purl rows, stranding the main color loosely across the back.

When the garment has been completed, the colored thread is then neatly unpicked. With a needle and the main color wool, whip stitch around the buttonhole, passing the needle through every stitch and taking in the strand of wool which was passed along on the wrong side of knitting. Take care not to have the whip-stitches too tight otherwise this will draw in your buttonhole.

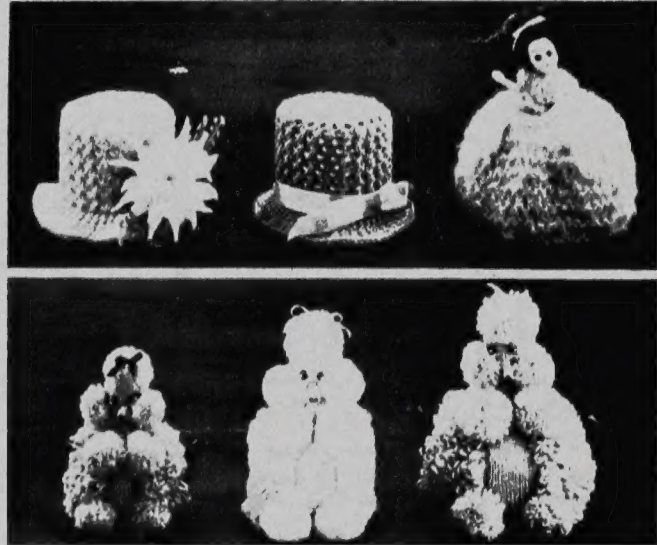

A good idea is to make the button band of the cardigan first. When this is finished, you can mark the positions of the buttons quite easily so that they are evenly spaced. You will then have a very good guide when you come to make the buttonhole side.

Work the required number of buttonholes as stated in the pattern. Don't try to get away with fewer buttonholes and choose a button that will easily pass through the buttonhole.

Knit spare toilet-tissue holders are this week's pattern that make novel bazaar and gift ideas! The poodle style can be made into a teacosy in three sizes, while the top-hat idea can be trimmed with ribbon, artificial flowers, beads or sequins. All can be made in an evening and from oddments you have on hand.

Moore's Lake Cottagers hold annual meeting

The Annual Meeting of the Moore's Lake Association was held at Forest Echo Lodge at 10 am, Saturday, September 2nd. After greeting the gathering, President Chris Wahlroth reported on the growth of the organization which represents Moore's and East Moore's Lake and the Gull River to Elliott's Falls, and dealt specifically with pollution problems. Although the Ministry of Environment says that pollution is minimal in our area, the results of specific location tests were not yet available - they will be reported in the upcoming Newsletter.

Correspondence with the Minden office of the Ministry of Natural Resources revealed that they have no control over the waterways. The Association's request that long trees protruding from the banks of the River, which constitute a hazard to boaters be removed, was answered by the comment that such trees must be removed by the owners of the shoreline. This sparked the irritation of ratepayers who pay taxes to the high water mark but the ownership of the 66' marine road allowance is vest in the Crown - in this case the Province of Ontario who have consistently denied control and return to the property, owners by the municipality. Many cottagers complained of the excessive speed of boats pulling water skiers in the River. The president commented that it was just a matter of time before a fatality provoked some measure of control. The safety of children swimming and canoeists seems to be of no concern to these speeding drivers. It is held by some that slowly driven boats cause erosion of the banks. Many cottagers have constructed breakwalls of logs backed by fill. Mr. Wahlroth would like to make it mandatory for night boaters to carry a strong headlight as a permanent fixture on their boats to lessen the danger of a collision.

Mrs. Helen Langdon, Secretary-Treasurer, reported a healthy bank balance and thanked those whose voluntary efforts had held down the expense of producing the Newsletter, which is mailed to all residents of the area.

Reeve William Valentine, an original member of the Association answered many pertinent questions from those in attendance. Mr. Robert Greven suggested that the Annual Meeting be held at an earlier date in 1979 with which all present agreed. It is suggested that the meeting be held during the afternoon, with a corn roast and entertainment to follow.

The meeting was adjourned at 12:10 pm. At 7:30 pm more than 100 members, their families and children turned out for a most successful corn and weiner roast. The new owners of Forest Echo, Ralph and Oliver Meyers were thanked for their hospitality and warmly welcomed to the community.

1000 Lakes Bowling News by Joan Devell

Carling O'Keefe tournaments

For many years now, the Carling O'Keefe Company have been involved with the sport of bowling. They have been very generous in their support of two of our most important tournaments, the Carling O'Keefe Classic for the 210 and under average bowlers and the Carling O'Keefe Open tournament designed for the better bowler.

A decision has now been made by the Carling O'Keefe Breweries Ltd., to change the name of these two bowling promotions, to the 'Colt 45 Classic' and the 'Colt 45 Open'.

Colt 45 is one of Carling's new brands which was just introduced on the market at the beginning of March of this year and it has already proved to be extremely popular.

This in no way will change these tournaments to the bowlers except in name only.

Thank you Carling O'Keefe for your faithful and continued support of 5 pin bowling.

provincial levels. He is the founding and immediate past president of the Sudbury-based Nickel District Bowlers' Association, and during the past year has been a member of the OBC Board of Directors.

He was the OBC's 1977/78 'Executive of the Year', and was presented in the same year with the first 'Zone Delegate of the Year' award from the Master Bowlers' Association of Ontario.

Association of Ontario.

Good luck Bill, in your new position. I had the pleasure of bowling with Bill in Toronto last year, and have been at the annual bowling convention with him for the past two years. There is no doubt in my mind Bill can handle the job very well.

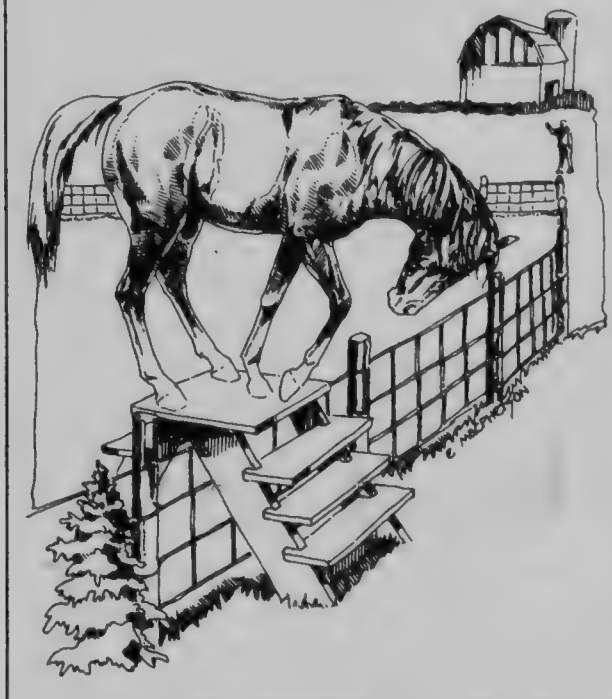

Bill Bird named Director of Public Relations

William A. 'Bill' Bird has been appointed Technical Director and Director of Public Relations for the 50,000 member Ontario Bowlers' Congress, governing body in Ontario for the sport of five-pin bowling. Bill has joined the OBC staff in Toronto from Sudbury, where he was employed for the past 10 years as Employee Communication Supervisor and Public Relations Officer for the Sudbury Operations of Falconbridge Nickel Mines Limited.

Earlier he spent four years in a similar position in the Toronto head office of Honeywell Controls Limited, and four years as a journalist with daily newspapers in Simcoe, Stratford, Kingston, Hamilton and Toronto. A past national president of the Canadian Industrial Editors' Association, his newspaper articles and publications have earned numerous professional awards for his work from that organization, from the Kitchener Waterloo Press Club, from the Industrial Accident Prevention Association of Ontario (IAPA), the American Association of Industrial Editors, and the International Council of Industrial Editors.

Bill Bird also brings eight years' experience in the five-pin sport to his new position, having been involved in the OBC, National Youth Bowling Council and Master Bowlers' Association programs at the house, zone and

Off and Trotting by Margaret Neal

Herman Lougheed of Singhampton, Ontario was an old-time harness horseman who delighted in challenging all comers to a road race with his little black mare.

Road racing was a common form of pleasure and excitement. Children on their way to and from school, dignified gentlemen with gold watch chains, young bloods Sunday driving with their best girl, and almost anyone else who had a road horse with a little "lick" took part in the fun. Excuses had to be found for upsets, broken wheels and scratched buggies - much as dented fenders have to be explained now! Challenge races on the road were the forerunners of harness racing as we know it to-day - and Herman Lougheed liked his fun as well as the next fellow!

In those days gates and wire fencing were expensive, and wood plentiful, and access to frequently visited pastures was often by means of a stile. The stile was simply a set of wooden steps which went up one side of the fence and down the other side.

When the old man wanted to go to town, he simply called Molly from the pasture. The sure-footed little mare had been taught to mount the stile from the pasture side and present herself in the barnyard to be hitched to the waiting buggy.

The old man was an excellent teacher who had educated many horses with his patient kindness, and Molly was an apt pupil.

Such men were the early teachers of horsemanship, who passed on their skill and knowledge to younger generations who are to-day's expert harness horsemen.

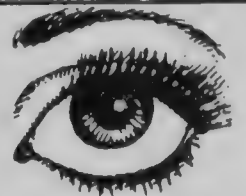

Cyclist critical after 20-foot plunge

Two motorcyclists were seriously injured after their motorcycle plunged into a 20-foot-deep hole at Morrison's Gravel Pit near Moore's Falls about 2:00 am last Sunday.

The driver, believed to be Robert Millard, of still unknown address and age, is listed in critical condition while the passenger Michael Stoikopoulos, 17, of Scarborough, has a broken jaw. Both are in a Toronto hospital.

Apparently both were riding along an old road in the gravel pit when the bike dropped into the unmarked hole. Damage to the Honda motorcycle is estimated at $300. Investigation by Provincial Constable Bob Wood.

Gordon Lightfoot

Singer sparks breath test debate

By John Shaughnessy

TORONTO — The acquittal of Canadian folk hero Gordon Lightfoot on a drinking and driving charge here could kill the use of breath sample evidence in many Canadian courtrooms.

Earlier this year, the prominent singer and composer was charged with driving with a blood alcohol level in excess of the legal 0.08%. At his trial last month, police officers testified he was stopped because he was driving with the high beams of his car on, that he failed a breath test on an ALERT — the device approved and used in most provinces to spot possible drinking drivers — and that about one hour later official tests on a Breathalyzer at a police station showed his BAL was 0.12% and 0.11%.

Provincial Court Judge S. M. Roebuck ruled this evidence was not sufficient to prove Mr Lightfoot's blood alcohol level exceeded the legal limit at the time he was driving, and acquitted him.

Deputy Crown attorney, Norman Matusiak told the judge it was natural and logical to infer from the official readings that Mr Lightfoot's BAL exceeded 0.08% when he was driving but the judge disagreed, saying he needed medical evidence to satisfy himself that he could draw such an inference.

The judge said that "based on the evidence I have heard there is nothing relating the readings to the amount of alcohol he had at the time he was stopped. Based on the evidence the court dismisses the charge."

Immediately after the acquittal, Mr Matusiak told reporters the decision "has shot the whole roadside screening program... It opens a hole in the line you could drive a truck through." He said similar cases awaiting trial may have to be adjourned until an appeal court makes a ruling on the Lightfoot decision.

Al Nield, a community consultant with the West Metro Centre of the Addiction Research Foundation in Toronto, told The Journal that the decision, if upheld on appeal, would effectively outlaw breath tests — "there'd be no point in using them" — and would bring into question how impaired drivers could be apprehended at all.

"As things now stand, the Breathalyzer is the only mechanism that is acceptable in court. You have to ask the apprehended person's permission to take a blood sample, but you don't have to ask permission to take a breath sample. The ALERT device (Alcohol Level Evaluation Roadside Tester) gives a pass, fail, or warn reading, but test results are unofficial and are not accepted as evidence in court."

Mr Nield, one of the originators of the RIDE program (Reduce Impaired Driving in Etobicoke) (See page 3) said the decision could mean that in every prosecution for impaired driving, medical evidence would have to be presented to draw inferences from the BAL levels on the breath tests and the BAL levels at the time the accused was driving, or the police would simply lay no more charges (until they get the go ahead or until new legislation is passed).

Meanwhile, police are ignoring the Lightfoot decision. Jack Ackroyd, deputy chief of the Metropolitan Toronto Police Department told The Journal: "We're just going to carry on until the appeal is heard."

"It's my opinion that the judge erred in law, and that's why we'll have to appeal it," he said.

The judge refused to draw the inference but "as long as the accused is in police custody there's no way he could have been drinking from the time he was first picked up and the final Breathalyzer."

Sergeant Don Colbourne, coordinator of the RIDE program said the decision "hasn't affected our procedures one iota. One judge's decision is not binding unless it's upheld on appeal. Until that happens we'll continue as normal."

We can drive, say drinkers

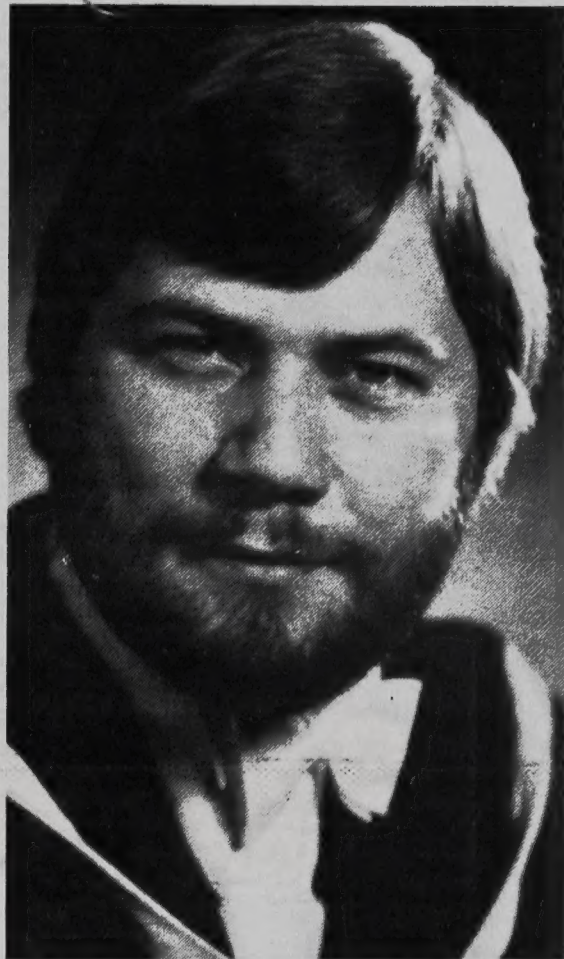

HAMILTON — More than two-thirds of impaired drivers surveyed in Etobicoke, Ont., where singer Gordon Lightfoot was charged, thought they could drive as well in their present condition as they could when they were sober.

The average blood alcohol level of the 129 drivers was .14%, almost twice the legal limit of 0.08%.

Almost 70% had heard of RIDE, a program of police spot checks to catch impaired drivers (See page 3) but 30% felt they had a right to drive while under the influence; 26% thought they were all right to drive; and 16% said they trusted to luck.

Twenty per cent said no one else was available to drive; 10% said they had to drink and weren't concerned about consequences; and 3.5% said they had an alcohol or personal problem.

Graphoanalyst born and raised in Minden

Former Mindenite Lawrence Gerald Hie, of Islington, Ontario, recently graduated as a Certified Graphoanalyst. The International Graphoanalysis Society, based in Chicago, granted the certificate to Mr. Hie after having successfully completed a course in the techniques of scientific handwriting analysis. Mr. Hie is trained to identify personality traits in people without the necessity of meeting them, using samples of their handwriting. The services of graphoanalysts are being used in business to facilitate personnel selection, credit risk evaluation, and also in questioned document examination work. It is also recognized as a valuable aid in counseling and is used by personal, marital, vocational and child guidance counselors in many parts of the world. Certification authorizes Mr. Hie to prepare personality assessment reports for business firms and to lecture to civic, service and social organizations whose members may be interested in learning more about the subject. Mr. Hie and his family spend their weekends at Hall's Lake and enjoy visiting their many friends and relatives, as well as Mr. Hie's mother, Mrs. Zilpah Hie in the Senior Citizens Home. Watch how you cross those 't's' and your 'a's' and 'o's' can tell a great deal about you.

Burning Rectal Itch Relieved In Minutes

Exclusive Healing Substance Relieves Pain As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids.

If you want satisfactory relief from 'Itching Piles'—here's good news. A renowned research laboratory has found a unique healing substance that promptly relieves the burning itch and pain—actually shrinks hemorrhoids. This substance has been shown to produce a most effective rate of healing.

In one case after another 'very striking improvement' was reported and verified. And most important... this improvement was maintained over a period of months.

All this was accomplished by a healing substance (Bio-Dync)—which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulate growth of new tissue. Now Bio-Dync is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H. Ask for it at all drug stores—satisfaction or money refunded.

FALL FAIRS

Even though September has just started, over half of the fairs in Victoria and Haliburton Counties have already been held this year. Perhaps we should talk about 'summer' fairs rather than 'fall' fairs, since the past month is a popular time for these events.

The Haliburton County Fair at Minden, the Fenelon Falls Fair, the Kinmount Fair and the Victoria County 4-H Fair at Omemee, have all been held, with excellent programs at each one.

The remaining are the Oakwood Fair on Sat., Oct. 9, the Lindsay Central Exhibition on Sept. 20 to 24, and the Bobcaygeon Fair on Sept. 29 & 30.

Oakwood Fair is looking forward to this year's event with a new date and extensive new facilities to accommodate their program. The Achievement Day program for the Little Britain and Woodville 4-H Clubs will be held at Oakwood this year.

There will be several new features of interest to farmers at Lindsay Exhibition. A new barn to house beef cattle is being built - this will relieve the crowding which has occurred in the Wilson Pavilion the past few years. With this change the sheep will be able to remain at the fair for several days, instead of being sent home immediately after their show.

A Barrow Show is a new feature of interest to pork producers in the area. This show will be held on Friday morning. Included will be a Junior Barrow show open to young people between the ages of 12 and 21.

Gardeners in the area should consider entering the Vegetable Display class at Lindsay Exhibition. This display will include ten different vegetables, and replaces the various individual vegetable classes of previous years. For further information on these and the many other classes at Lindsay Exhibition, contact the Exhibition office for a prize list.

For details of the program at Oakwood Fair, contact the Secretary, Mr. Bill Weldon at Oakwood. Details on Bobcaygeon Fair are available from Mrs. Margot Brown, RR 1, Dunsford, Secretary of the Bobcaygeon Agricultural Society.

West Guilford woman faces 48 charges over bad cheques

A West Guilford woman has been charged with 46 counts of false pretences plus two of fraud.

Charged is Anna Barry, 24. She had been charged earlier this summer after the Minden Red and White received two NSF cheques.

In the investigation that followed the other cheques surfaced.

Apparently all cheques were given to local businesses. There is no estimate of the total amount involved as yet. Investigation by Provincial Constable Al Bibby.

SUPPLY ORDERS THE CLUE: FALL MAINTENANCE SEASON GETS UNDERWAY

The Central Stores staff of the Trent-Severn Waterway have a good indication that the fall is coming. Area maintenance managers and construction foremen turn up with trucks for supplies with increasing frequency, and those supplies are for the repairs scheduled for the fall and winter. Tons of cables, structural steel, lumber, bolts, fittings, cement and nails pull out of the yard on the backs of Waterway flatbed trailers or pickups, destined for work sites along the System.

For the Stores personnel, it's a change in the supply business. The summers are busy periods for stocking lock stations with the necessities of life - everything from fire extinguishers to soap to permits. The rest of the year sees a run on the construction inventory - a host of stores items from rock bolts to hydraulic lubricants.

The Trent-Severn Waterway also supplies stores inventories to the Rideau Canal, and to Fort Wellington Historic Park in Prescott. But for the Stores personnel, these are minor tasks compared to the supply job along the 240 mile Trent-Severn corridor.

WATER CONTROL
Over the week preceding August 28, the Reservoir storage drop was again less than 1%, holding at 70.7%. This is the second week in succession when rainfall amounted to more than canal requirements. Flows were increased again down the Otonabee to help avert overfilling problems due to wet weather later in the autumn. Haliburton Lakes are drawn down each fall to prepare for spring freshet. The time of completion of this runoff is critical for the following reasons:

(a) Drawdown after October 31 may cause damage to fish spawn.
(b) Some lakes become inaccessible as soon as ice forms (especially when chainsaws, etc. must be carried in to cut ice for log changes).
(c) The dams get dangerous to work on or around as soon as snow and ice are prevalent. Each log change is accompanied by cutting and chipping ice. On some 40 lakes, this becomes onerous.
(d) A crew of only two men is available to do these jobs. They must also perform maintenance and other functions such as gauge reading and snow surveys.

As of the end of August, the storage percentage in 1978 was exceeded only once (1972) since 1970. From past experience, we know that running off the water in a short period of time can be impossible if there is too much, or rainy weather accompanies it. Good water levels all this summer, the reduced amount of recreational use of the reservoirs after Labor Day and the potential complications of too much water, are all considered as we decide how fast to run the reservoir water off.

Fluoridate our water ...Health Unit

Area drinking water should be fluoridated, according to the Haliburton, Kawartha, Pine Ridge District Health Unit. Officials this week pointed out that while efficient, fluoride mouth-rinsing programs are steadily growing in the area, nowhere in the health unit's entire district is the actual drinking water fluoridated. Yet, some 72 percent of Ontario's water supplies are, in fact, currently fluoridated. For years a controversial subject remarkable mainly for the bitter wrangling between those for fluoridating water supplies and those against it, fluoridation has in recent years become an accepted and effective means of preventing tooth decay.

MAIL STRIKE POSSIBLE

Get your duck permits early

Ontario's duck hunters are advised to obtain their Canada migratory bird hunting permits as quickly as possible to avoid a possible mail strike in September, Natural Resources Minister James A.C. Auld said today. 'The permits have been on sale at post offices since August 1 but a postal strike could occur by mid-September, about the time peak sales of permits usually begin,' Mr. Auld warned. 'Therefore, I suggest that duck hunters should obtain their permits soon, to avoid disappointment if the post offices close.'
